

IAA Transportation starts ticket sales

The IAA Transportation is launching ticket sales for this year's event in Hanover from September 17 to 22. In addition to the regular visitor days, there will be a family festival with special attractions and activities at the weekend.

Visitors can choose between several price categories. A season ticket (74 euros) allows multiple entries over the entire duration of the event. A day ticket (28 euros) entitles the holder to one admission on any day of the week, including access to the IAA Conference. The afternoon ticket (13 euros) is valid from 1 p.m. on any day and at the weekend the day ticket is available for a single admission for just 10 euros. Reduced day tickets for 9 euros are reserved for school pupils, students and trainees, volunteers and people with disabilities upon presentation of appropriate proof.

The press day will take place on September 16. Online accreditation begins at the end of April. Trade visitors also have the opportunity to purchase a ticket (69 euros) for the press day for one-off admission from 13:00. (aum)

Images for article

Photo: Autoren-Union Mobilität/VDA

---